

Notice of Disclaimer: Conditions of Use of Rad Pro Calculator

Although every effort was made to make the numbers as accurate as possible and all formulas were hand checked multiple times, please agree to the below conditions before use of the website or downloadable software.

The website name and code and Rad Pro Calculator Desktop are owned by the author and developer of Rad Pro Calculator Software Development. Any reliance of the user on the results produced by the website and software or any part thereof is at the user's own risk and the author shall not be liable for any loss or damage howsoever arising as a result of the user's application of the results.

The user acknowledges that the website and software were developed for the author's use. The author therefore, will not be liable for interpretations of or inconsistencies, discrepancies, errors or omissions in any part of or all of the website and desktop software.

The user agrees that the website and software or any part thereof, either digital or hardcopy, must not be sold, traded for gain, let, hired or otherwise dealt with without the prior written approval of the author.

The website and software are presented and provided 'as is' and the author makes no claims, either express or implied, to the fitness of either the website or the software for any particular purpose.

The website and software were never designed to conform to any nuclear or radiological codes or legislations.

Use of the website or the software is contingent upon agreeing with the above disclaimers.